About This Directory

The Saskatchewan Ministry of Agriculture publishes the Saskatchewan Organic Marketing and Processor Guide to profile and promote Saskatchewan's organic industry to an international audience.

Saskatchewan

Last updated - October 2014

Saskatchewan is a prairie province located in the heartland of Canada. The province's farmland covers more than 65 million acres (26 million hectares) and accounts for more than 40 per cent of Canada's arable land. This pristine environment boasts more than 100,000 freshwater lakes.

An abundance of fertile agricultural soils and a clean, natural environment with plenty of sunshine make Saskatchewan an ideal region for organic production. With the lowest land costs of any province in Canada, farmers in Saskatchewan are well-positioned to produce and market organic products. The current value of the Canadian organic retail market is estimated at more than $3 billion and continues to grow.

According to the 2011 Census of Agriculture, Saskatchewan is home to 1,064 certified organic farms. In addition, it is estimated that Saskatchewan has more than half of Canada's organic land.

Currently, Saskatchewan has more than 50 organic processors and handlers, including seed cleaners, packers, brokers and manufacturers who process products from flour and flax oil to packaged products such as bread, cereal mixtures and oatmeal. Saskatchewan's organic processors are capturing market demand for organic food.

More than half of the organic grains and oilseeds produced in Canada are from Saskatchewan. Saskatchewan also has organic livestock, vegetable and fruit operations. The province is a leading Canadian exporter of organic grain and oilseed products and cereal-based food ingredients. The majority of Saskatchewan's exports are destined for the United States, the European Union and Japan.
